Board Appoints New Vice Chancellor, Human Resources

Dr. Joseph N. Quarles, Deputy Superintendent and Chief of Staff for the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District, has been selected as the new Coast Community College District Vice Chancellor for Human Resources. Quarles, who will begin his new assignment on July 1, replaces retired Vice Chancellor Dr. John D. Renley.

Quarles has been with the Santa Monica-Malibu School District since 1992. From 1980 through 1992, he served in various administrative roles with ABC Unified School District in Cerritos. Quarles holds a doctorate in education from University of Southern California. The Coast Community College District Board of Trustees appointed Quarles at their June 16 meeting. He will begin his new assignment on July 1, 2004.

Board Approves 3% Salary Increase for Coast faculty and staff

The Board of Trustees has approved a 3% salary schedule increase for District faculty and staff. The approved increase is dependent upon final approval of a proposed 2.41% cost of living adjustment (COLA) for community colleges in the State Budget. That COLA is expected to be included in the final state budget signed by the Governor later this summer.

If that COLA is approved in the State Budget, the 3% increase for District employees will go into effect for most employee groups either July 1, 2004 or Fall 2004

New Student Trustee Sworn In

Orange Coast College student Heather Larson was sworn June 16 as the 2004-05 District Student Trustee. At the June Board meeting, Board President George Brown administered the oath of office to Larson.

The new trustee was elected to the Board by the District-Wide Student Council. The council includes three student representatives each from Coastline, Golden West and Orange Coast colleges.

Among her duties as student trustee, Larson meets with the District-Wide Student Council on a monthly basis to discuss student issues to bring before the Board. Though the student trustee is a non-voting member of the Board, Larson has all other rights and privileges of a Trustee, including the ability to make and second motions and engage in discussions. Larson will serve a one-year term, ending in May 2005.

Board Selects Donoff As Golden West College Interim President

The Board of Trustees selected former Orange Coast College Vice President Sharon K. Donoff as Interim President of Golden West College in Huntington Beach.

A veteran Coast Community College District administrator with more than 28 years of experience, Donoff served as Vice President of Student Services at Orange Coast College from 1986 until her retirement in 2001. She will temporarily replace Dr. Kenneth Yglesias, who will take over as Chancellor of the District on July 1.

Donoff also served as Interim Vice President of Student Services at Golden West College from September 2003 through March of this year. She will serve as Interim President starting July 6, 2004 and ending January 31, 2005, or until a permanent appointment is made.

Acceptance of Retirements

Anderson, John W., GWC, Instructor, Accounting, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Jack Anderson arrived at Golden West College in the spring of 1976. Prior to coming to GWC, Jack taught as an Adjunct faculty member at Orange Coast College. Jack's supportive teaching style with the Golden West College students may come from the fact that he was also a product of the community college system, having earned his A.A. from El Camino College. His rich background in Accounting began as he was employed by one of the "Big Eight" accounting firms, a corporate controller in private industry, and an accounting department manager in the airline industry. He also owns his own accounting/tax firm. Jack graduated with his Bachelor's in Science and Masters in Business Administration through the University of Southern California. He has also attained his Certified Public Accountant certification. Jack has stayed current with changes in his field through his activities as a practicing CPA. In the early 90's, he served as the Business Department chair. He was instrumental in developing and offering the first on-line Accounting classes through GWC. Jack is looking forward to spending more time with his wife, Carol, and their children and grandchildren. They will also be traveling to the Sierras and visiting their daughter in Romania. We will miss Jack's quiet demeanor and warm personality.

He picked up a second master's degree in reading disorders from California State University at Long Beach. He also earned an administrative certificate from Cal State Long Beach. Dean worked as a speech therapist with the Cahokia Unified School District in Illinois. Dean joined Orange Coast College's faculty in 1975 as a learning disabilities specialist. He retires as a full professor and learning specialist. Dean is a member of the California Post Secondary Educators of the Disabled (CAPED) and the Learning Disabilities Association. He is also a member of Phi Delta Kappa. Dean and his wife, Mary, live in Huntington Beach and have three grown sons.

Brand, Joanna, OCC, Librarian, retirement effective 05/31/04.

An Orange County native, Joanna graduated from Orange Coast College in 1970 with an A.A. degree in geography. She attended San Francisco State University for a year, then finished her B.A. in geography at California State University at Fullerton. She received an M.A. degree from Fullerton in history. Joanna earned a second master's degree – an M.L.S. in library and information studies – from the University of Hawaii. She worked as an adjunct librarian at Golden West College and Rio Hondo College before joining Orange Coast College's faculty. She became a part-time OCC instructor in 1989, and joined the faculty on a full-time basis in 1992. Joanna retires as a full professor and librarian. She has also taught geography at Orange Coast as an adjunct instructor. Joanna enjoys dogs and cats, boating, reading and travel.

She has been a volunteer with Laguna Greenbelt, Inc. Joanna lives in Laguna.

Coates, Mona A., OCC, Instructor, Social Sciences, retirement effective 06/05/04.

A native of Johnstown, Pa., Mona moved with her family to California at the age of 15. She received her A.A. degree from Chaffey College, and earned B.A. and M.A. degrees in sociology and psychology from California State University at Fullerton. She completed a Ph.D. from Newport University, in conjunction with UC Irvine. Mona joined Orange Coast College's faculty in 1967 immediately after finishing work on her master's degree. She began her OCC career by teaching classes in introductory sociology and social problems. She was also advisor to the College Y. Later, she taught the college's human sexuality courses. During the Vietnam War, she volunteered her time as a counselor for OCC student veterans. Mona joined Orange Coast's staff as a sociology instructor and retires, 37 years later, as a professor of sociology and psychology. In addition to being a college professor, Mona is a psychotherapist in private practice, a licensed marriage and family counselor, a certified hypnotherapist, a nationally certified sex therapist and sex educator, and an Enneagram (personality typing) author and teacher. She has published numerous articles on the structure of personality types in the "Enneagram Monthly," "The American Board of Hypnotherapy Journal" and the "California Therapist." Mona is a member of the American Association of Sex Educators, Counselors and Therapists and the California Association of Marriage and Family Therapists. She is a lifetime member of Alpha Gamma Sigma. Mona enjoys bicycling, walking, hiking, film, theater and travel.

Collins, Donald, OCC, Instructor, Biology, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Born in Burbank, Calif. Donald earned his A.A. degree in biology from Glendale College. He picked up a bachelor's degree in biology and an M.S. in zoology from California State University at Los Angeles. He was an ironworker while a college student, and worked as a teaching assistant for three years at Cal State L.A. While a Cal State T.A., Donald taught classes in zoology, physiology and anatomy. He also taught biology and basic science at Nogales High School in La Puente. Donald joined Orange Coast College's faculty in 1969. He was hired to teach ecology and environmental science courses as well as biology. For many years, Donald taught exclusively OCC biology and ecology majors. In 1980, he began to teach biology to non-majors, and became coordinator of the Biology Department's Non-Majors Program. One of Donald's former OCC students is Dr. James Tait Goodrich, an internationally renowned New York neurosurgeon. Dr. Goodrich dedicated a book that he wrote in 2001 on neurosurgery and craniofacial surgery to Donald.

"Donald Collins had a major influence on my early education career when I came to Orange Coast College," Goodrich wrote. Donald lives in Tustin. He is interested in all sports, and has been an avid cyclist and runner. He also enjoys fishing.

Cox, Michael J., GWC, Instructor, Business & Computer Sciences, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Michael Cox started at Golden West College in December 1976 and has served as Director of Computer Services, as well as an instructor in the Computer Science Department and more recently an instructor in the Mathematics Department since 1992. Michael has been a valued member of many committees on campus. In his retirement, he is looking forward to spending more time with his wife, children, and grandchildren. In addition, he will spend more time with his church, and helping his elderly parents. He expects to study, read, write, consult, write computer programs, and work with more advanced aspects of Photoshop.

Crown, Kathryn A., GWC, Instructor, English, retirement effective 06/01/04.

Kathy Crown, with her tremendous sense of integrity, has served this college well for over 30 years. Her career began working with the hearing impaired, and she was responsible for bringing that program into the fold of the English and ESL Department. She also served as counselor for disabled students. She taught history for many years. Then as grants writer, she brought in over $2,000,000 to the college before she returned to serve the English Department, where her students benefited from her extensive knowledge of history as well as her excellent writing skills. Kathy has served on every major campus committee, chairing CCI and serving as senator for English for 12 years. She will be sorely missed by her colleagues.

Donaldson, Paul L., GWC, Instructor, Art, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Paul Donaldson has been teaching painting and drawing at GWC since 1971. He is deeply grateful to have had the opportunity to teach at the community college level. Paul's own life was inspired by his own instructors when he was a junior college student. After his retirement, Paul will continue teaching part-time at GWC. He intends to practice his art which is to depict commonplace scenes of Mexico in acrylic paint. He lives in San Diego with his wife, Kathe, and will return to a community college in San Diego as a student.

Fitzgerald, Dorothy, GWC, Instructor, Mathematics, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Dorothy Fitzgerald began teaching in the Mathematics Department in 1984 and has enjoyed her tenure here at GWC. She has been instrumental in the growth of the Math for Elementary Teachers courses on campus, as well as coordination with CSULB and their teacher preparation program. For the past six and one-half years, she has had release time to serve as the Community College Coordinator for MDTP (Mathematics Diagnostic Testing Project), a project of UC and CSU which provides placement tests that are used at GWC and over half of the California community colleges. She has also been involved with California Mathematics Council for Community Colleges and Pathways for Success in Algebra. Though she will greatly miss her interaction with colleagues and students, she is looking forward to many of the enjoyments that retirement will bring: sleeping in, reading, traveling, gardening, and quilting (hoping to finish a quilt composed of embroidered state flowers). She may pursue a long-time interest in the mathematics of cryptology, but is mostly looking forward to enjoying life at a more leisurely pace with her husband Tom (who retired three years ago) and her children and grandchildren.

Garner, Carol F., OCC, Instructor, Business Management/Fashion Merchandising, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Born and raised in San Pedro, Calif., Carol is a community college product. She received her A.A. degree from Long Beach City College. While at Long Beach, she was involved in student government and served as student body president. She completed her B.A. degree in social sciences from California State University at Long Beach, and an M.A. in social sciences from Azusa Pacific University. Carol worked in the fashion industry for several years as an assistant buyer, department manager and fashion merchandiser. She joined Orange Coast College's faculty in 1973 as director of the college's Fashion Merchandising Department. She retires as a professor of management and marketing. Carol lives in Huntington Beach.

Hall, Leva B., CCC, Instructor, Basic Skills, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Leva Hall began teaching as an adjunct faculty member in 1985 and became a full-time faculty member in 1990. She led the development of the Basic Skills Center at a time when basic skills training was needed by local employers. At one time, over 600 students participated in basic skills training programs. She recently participated in the development of the new Student Success Center at the College Center. Leva has taught a full range of developmental English classes, served as a tutor to help students in English and Mathematics, and taught memory techniques in the Emeritus program. She has served for many years on the Curriculum Committee and Matriculation Committee at the College.

Jessoe, Francis A., GWC, Instructor, Mathematics, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Francis (Frank) Jessoe has chosen to retire with a deep sense of ambivalence. After 36 years (20 of those years here at GWC) as an instructor of mathematics, he feels the time has come for him to step aside and pass the baton to a younger and more energetic individual. Frank has decided it is far nobler to conclude ones professional career with an aura of grace and dignity than to stumble along in a state of babbling incoherence unable to recognize the flashing exit signs. Thus, the attractive 2+2 retirement incentive plan sponsored by the District tipped the scaled definitely in favor of his choice for retirement. Frank's dedication to student learning has been the cornerstone of his career. Many students have been blessed by having the privilege of being in one of his math classes. He is content to move on since he feels he has lived his dream to its fullest. He has drawn 36 years worth of energy, enthusiasm and optimism from his students and hopes that he has left the students touched by his instruction with but a portion of the wisdom and goodness that they imparted to him throughout the years. We wish Frank and his wife success in their new endeavors and good health for their future years.

Johnson, Robert J., GWC, Instructor, Special Education, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Robert "Rob" Johnson came to Golden West College in 1971 from SELACO High School in Los Angeles. He was hired to work for the Disabled Students Services Program, which in the 70's was called the Hearing Impaired Program. He worked both as an audiologist and instructor for the program. From the 80's until now, Rob has been teaching special sections of ESL for the deaf. Rob will always be remembered for his witty sense of humor and his love of motorcycles, vintage automobiles, and sailing. In his retirement Rob plans to spend his time enjoying his recreational "toys". Those who have worked with him, especially those in DSS, will miss him. We wish him well in this next phase of his life.

Langhans, Margaret M., OCC, Instructor, English, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Peg earned her B.A. degree in English from Mount St. Mary's College in Los Angeles and her M.A. from California State University at Fullerton. She joined Orange Coast College's faculty in 1975 as an instructor in English and retires as a full professor of English. Peg taught sections this spring in "Critical Reasoning, Reading and Writing Through Literature" and "American Literature in the 20th Century." Peg lives in Long Beach

Lewis, Ralph F., OCC, Instructor, Economics, retirement effective 05/31/04.

A Tennessee native, Ralph earned his A.A. degree from Fullerton College. He completed B.A. and M.A. degrees in economics from California State University at Fullerton. Ralph worked as an office manager for Southern California Edison Company, and was president of Economics Research, Inc. He joined Orange Coast College's faculty in 1969 as an economics instructor, shortly after completing his master's degree. He retires as a professor of economics. Ralph served as president of the OCC Academic Senate during the 1973-74 academic year. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa. Ralph was president of Omicron Delta Epsilon, one of the world's largest academic honor societies. ODE honors outstanding achievements in economics. He was director of the Community College Economics Educators of Southern California. Ralph enjoys golf, reading and the mountains. He lives in Costa Mesa.

Megorden, Roger, GWC, Automotive Technology, retirement effective 07/01/04.

Roger Megorden has been teaching automotive technology at Golden West College for just under 30 years. His areas of expertise have been Engine Repair, Electrical/Electronics and Emissions. For the last several years he has been the department's I.U.A. (department chair) over the Automotive, Diesel and Automotive Collision Repair areas. In the early 90's, Roger was released to teach Dealership Automotive Technicians under a special contract with General Motors. Since that time he has achieved certification and licensing to teach automotive emissions classes that meet California Bureau of Automotive Repair standards to employed technicians. In addition he has provided valuable leadership in getting the department's classrooms and labs internet ready. He has always kept up to date in his knowledge of the field by attending professional association workshops, manufacturer seminars and passing state and national certification tests. His knowledge and instruction will be missed by his students and colleagues as he prepares for his next chapter in life traveling in his motor home while keeping his home base in Huntington Beach.

Norton, Helen, GWC, Instructor, Nursing, retirement effective 05/31/04.

Helen Norton changes the world, one student at a time. She has shared her passion and expertise in Mental Health nursing with both students and faculty alike. Helen came to GWC in August of 1978. She began her career teaching in the Psychiatric Technician Program and moved between that program and the nursing program for the next 5 years. Once established in the Nursing Program she taught subjects throughout the four semesters including Psychiatric, Medical-Surgical, Fundamentals, Gerontics and Leadership. She was chosen to spearhead a special project to incorporate phlebotomy and EKG's into the curriculum. This innovation is now used in most nursing programs across the nation. She has participated in other leadership activities including being a co-chair for a major curriculum revision, an advisor to the California Nursing Student Association, and a member on major campus wide committees including IPD and CCI. Helen also volunteers her time to be on the Board for "The Village", a homeless shelter in Long Beach. Helen's name means "the light" and we will miss her radiance in the nursing department. Her plans after retirement include traveling and spending more time with her daughter Alix and husband Dan.

Rowe, Richard B., GWC, Instructor, History, retirement effective 07/01/04.

Rick Rowe began his career at Golden West College 35 years ago. He was a young, brown-haired 24-year-old teacher when he arrived at GWC, but says that his hair has been solid white for far longer than he can now remember. Rick thinks that it has been his great good fortune to share his passion for history with tens of thousands of students, and that his fondest hope is that some spark from his classes will stay with them and in some unknowable way help them to enjoy a more fulfilling life. Rick is retiring from GWC, but he'll remain busy in his other occupation as a financial planner. He and his wife Jeannine love to travel. Rick plans to continue bike riding, walking their Scottish terriers Franklin and Eleanor (he says only an historian would come up with such names!), and perhaps take up golf or get back into surfing. Rick's attitude is, "Why not try anything in retirement?"

Wadhams, John H., GWC, Instructor, Mathematics, retirement effective 05/31/04.

After graduating with honors from California State University at Los Angeles, John (Jack) Wadhams submitted his first teaching application to GWC and was hired in 1967 by Dudley Boyce. Bob Denton, who had been one of Jack's best friends throughout graduate school, informed him of the opening and Hayden Williams interviewed him (as Jack recalls this happened at an A&W drive-in restaurant on Westminster Blvd while eating hamburgers). Such was the beginning of Jack's 37 year teaching career! One of Jack's favorite exclamations is, "I've loved almost every day of it." Integrated into Jack's teaching is his passion for examining the cosmos from the macrocosm to the microcosm and sharing his journeys with his students. Einstein's theory of relativity caught him in the 60's, the Quark theory in the 70s, fractals in the 80s, chaos in the 90's, and cellular automata in the 00's. His current passion is the study and performance of magic. Jack and his wife Joan will be selling their Fountain Valley home and moving to Clear Lake (about 120 miles north of San Francisco) where they are building a new home on their two acre lot over-looking Clear Lake. High on Jack's priority list for retirement activities is getting a new 24' pontoon boat to use pulling his grandsons around the lake on inner tubes. Building a new house, fishing, boating, hiking, spending time with his daughters and three grandsons, walking his Australian Shepard up and down the creeks, participating in local affairs, performing magic, and discovering a new world with his wife promises to keep Jack busy and 'loving almost every day.'

Springer, Donna M., GWC, Admissions and Records Technician II, Classified Unit, retirement effective 07/06/04.

Donna Springer, a prior Golden West College student, returned in 1984 to work as an hourly employee in the Registration office. She then became permanent when she accepted the position of Admissions and Records Technician in 1994. Responsible for our permanent student records, Donna has been instrumental in setting up Legacy, the College's optical imaging system, which permanently stores student transcripts. A loyal employee and true Renaissance woman, Donna is looking forward to finishing construction on her self-sufficient farm in central California, where she and her husband, Mike, will spend time when not at their home in Huntington Beach.
